The 2014 Critical Theory Roundtable
Dartmouth College, Hanover, NH
September 19-21, 2014
Sponsored by the Dartmouth College Philosophy Department and the Leslie Center for the Humanities

Friday September 19
Rockefeller 3

4:15-6:00
Prof. Axel Honneth (University of Frankfurt/Columbia University)

7:00-10:00 Dinner/Reception (private)

Saturday September 20
1930s Room, Rockefeller Center

8:30 coffee and pastries

9:00-10:30 “It’s All About the Benjamins: Notes on the Gambler as a Political Type”
Robyn Marasco, Hunter College

“Critical Theory and Anarchism”
Fred Rush, University of Notre Dame

10:45-12:15 “Critical Theory and the Critique of Markets”
Timo Jütten, University of Essex

“The Ends of Economic History: Alternative Teleologies and the Ambiguities of Normative Reconstruction”
Christopher Zurn, University of Massachusetts-Boston

12:15-1:30 lunch

1:30-3:00 “Social Power and the Politics of ‘Choice’: A Critical Appropriation of Foucault on Normative Discourse and Economic Power”
Ashleigh Campi, University of Chicago

“The Immediacy of Liberation: Foucault, Freedom, and the Critique of Political Reason”
Kevin Jobe, Stony Brook University

3:00-3:30 coffee break
3:30-5:00
“‘Recognition Trouble’: The Tension between Inclusion and Exclusion in Judith Butler’s Work”
Ingrid Cyfer, Federal University of São Paulo

“Honneth, Power, and a New Critical Theory of the Self”
Johanna Meehan, Grinnell College
Lenny Moss, University of Exeter

5:15-7:30
“Reconciliation and Autonomy: A Framework for the Comparative Assessment of Rawls, Habermas, and Honneth”
Todd Hedrick, Michigan State University

“Dialectics of Critical Theory: Critique of Power, the Turn to Justification, and the Stakes of Critical Reflexivity”
Ian Storey, Harvard University

Antonio Vázquez-Arroyo, Rutgers-Newark

7:30
dinner (private)

Sunday September 21
1930s Room, Rockefeller Center

8:30
Coffee and pastries

9:00-11:15
“Paradoxes of Legitimate Violence”
Mattias Iser, Binghamton University

“Tyranny, Legitimacy, and Global Government”
Rochelle DuFord, Binghamton University

“Law in the Age of Cosmopolitan Territories: A Defense of Legal Pluralism”
Anna Jurkevics, Yale University

11:30-1:00
“Justice without Solidarity? Collective Identity, Integration, and What is Really Missing in Habermas’ Critical Theory”
Andrew Pierce, Sacred Heart University

“Political Obligation between Facts and Norms”
Jonathan Trejo-Mathys, Boston College

For further information, or to pre-register, please contact:
Amy.R.Allen@dartmouth.edu